PIN-FIRING IS PROHIBITED

Pin-firing is illegal in NSW. It is prohibited under the Greyhound Racing Rules and POCTAA.

There is no evidence to support the practice of pin-firing. If pin-firing is identified disciplinary action will be taken and any greyhounds found to have undergone the procedure at any stage, will not be permitted to race.

NSW Next Generation

How old were you when you first joined the greyhound racing industry?

I was about 10 years old when my mum started training and that's about the time I started going to the track and being around greyhounds.

What has been your biggest achievement in greyhound racing so far?

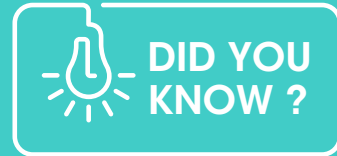

Getting my attendant licence, it was such a big achievement for me because it meant that I was able to do more with the dog on the track.

What do you love most about greyhound racing?

The dogs are probably what I love most because you can grow such a good connection with them and they will never let you down. I also love the people that you meet along the way, you meet some amazing people and friends for life and these people are like family to me.

Associate Attendant

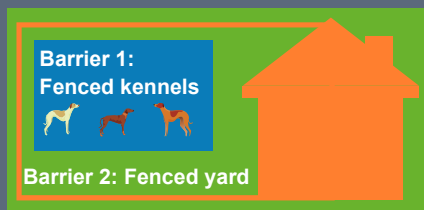

A Junior Attendant Permit allows 12 & 13 year-olds to handle greyhounds at trials that take place at registered race tracks.

It's a great way for young people to get involved before they can apply for an Associate Attendant registration at age 14. Permit holders must be supervised by a registered adult participant.

Code of Practice - Barriers

The Greyhound Welfare Code of Practice requires greyhounds to be securely confined to prevent their escape from the property, with two barriers between a greyhound and escape from the property, unless they are under supervision.

Supervision means there must be someone present with greyhounds who could intervene immediately if required.

Un-supervised greyhounds

Also, injectable substances of any kind cannot be administered earlier than an entire day prior to the midnight before a greyhound races.
